Drawing Now Le salon du dessin contemporain

March 26 / March 30 2014 - Carreau du Temple & Espace Communes

Spring is coming with art fairs of contemporary art, design, and drawing such as Art Paris, PAD, DDessin, Le salon du dessin and Drawing Now.

The last one has moved and will inaugurate the Carreau du Temple, a 3 000 sq. meters space entirely refurbished which presents in one hand, international art galleries already presented at the previous editions, and in the other hand, the INITIAL section, with the 17 new art galleries of the fair.

The Espace Communes will show the FRESH section where will be gathered the young art galleries. Few changes for a fair resolutely contemporary, dedicated to drawings that will be punctuated by a Drawing Night on Friday March 28th.

The art fair hasn't open its doors yet but I already want to draw the light on the young british artist, Nina Mae Fowler who will be exhibited by The Cob Gallery in the FRESH section at the Espace Communes. She will show a large-scale "montage-drawing", and her last series "Leaning Boards". These drawings in a human scale, passing from 2 dimensions to 3D (visuals in the "galerie photo"), won't let you indifferent.

And don't forget either the exhibition of Villeglé, Lek & Sowat, a proposal of Philippe Pigué, artistic director of the fair.
